

CIA - Online Creative Writing

Prerequisite: Juniors and Seniors, department approval

The purpose of this class is to encourage you to cultivate the habits, attitudes and flexibility of a writer. You will practice writing like a reader and reading like a writer. You will be expected to read contemporary published authors, confer with the instructor, participate in peer editing, research writing techniques, keep and regularly write in a writer's journal, and experiment with and revise writing routinely. Through all these activities, this course will help you experience the process that is creative writing.
